Integrating Study Skills into Classes
Course #001757, Session #0004
AS175, AS Bldg, CTL Southern & Dobson
With the implementation of Success from Day One and as the College endeavors to meet goals around the Completion Agenda, student retention and success in a class continue to be important. Helping students understand how to study for your particular subject area can be extremely useful in assisting students meet their goals of passing the course. Participants will go through activities I have developed related to my efforts to integrate study skills activities into physics classes. It is sometimes felt that only remedial students can benefit from such activities. I will make the case that all students can benefit from the activities and discussions centered on study skills. While my experience has been in integrating study skills into a physics course, the techniques presented can apply to many subjects at the college level. Presented by John Griffith
